

Morning Walk

Leaves, pine cones, twigs lying on ice-crusting snow absorbing light of warming Sun gently unmask beauty of seed-budding earth—our heart.

Young ones

Walking, in winter,
Through silent woods,
As though through quiet rooms
Full of young ones sleeping—
The hour of spring-awakening Just ahead.