

All Along the Way

1. All, all along the way, when we had thought all our hopes had died, suddenly a stranger came by and asked us why we looked so sadly: “Have you not heard of the terrible things that happened these past days?” 2. In the breaking of the bread we recognized who he really was.
We could see life in a new way and believe that he had risen.
All he had said to us now had real meaning, alive in wonder.
3. Now, now we know for sure there is a way of opening to life, to receive a stranger’s vision, hidden purpose of his presence to live in us, and to be born again, yes, born again.
